Why you should attend?

- Extracurricular activities – does quality trump quantity? How to be strategic when choosing activities based on core interests (i.e., athletics, arts, etc.)?
- Which online seminars, apps, and publications are available to fill up your academic gaps in your resume?
- Learn how to make the most of your campus visits, including when to visit, how to prepare, what to do while on campus, and how to use information from the visits to choose and apply to colleges
- Learn how to increase your “Interest quotient”, or demonstrated interest, a major criterion in admissions. Campus visits, which admissions round to apply to, and how to position your essays can have dramatic impact on the interest quotient
- Learn how to prepare for interviews with admissions officers and alumni, including how to research a college, develop interview questions, dress for an interview, and ask and answer interview questions effectively
- Find out how to research, develop, and finalize a college list, and gauge which schools will be the best fit for you academically and socially - having a balanced list of target, reach, and likely schools is critical to admissions success

- Find out how selective admissions committees evaluate applicants and presents the reading rubric, bringing full transparency to how admissions decisions are made

- Participants will roleplay the Dean of Admissions and gain a better understanding of what happens from the other side of an admissions officer's desk
